YOUNG PEOPLE remember international [re]act finding memories

for civic educational institutions
from Germany, Europe and Israel
Deadline: September 2, 2024

In the YOUNG PEOPLE remember international program the EVZ Foundation, together with the Federal Foreign Office, promotes international, civic educational work and allows young people to engage in a critical examination of history. The focus is on transnational learning at historical sites of National Socialist persecution and extermination, as well as questions relating to European culture(s) of remembrance.

The funding line [re]act finding memories focuses on bi-lateral and multilateral youth encounters for young people between 14 and 35 years of age, as well as professional exchanges for disseminators. We support projects that deal with National Socialist history in a multi-perspective, transnational, and interdisciplinary way using contemporary methods as well as groundbreaking concepts.

Which are the formats we are funding?

1. Bilateral and multilateral encounters for adolescents and young adults at historical sites of National Socialist persecution and extermination in Europe over a period of several days.
The target group consists of school students, students, apprentices, young professionals, etc. between the ages of 14 and 35.
2. Bilateral and multilateral exchanges for disseminators to develop offerings and to develop interdisciplinary concepts for international youth encounters in memorial sites or at historical sites of National Socialist persecution and extermination in Europe.

The target groups are teachers involved in all types of schools, university teaching staff, professionals involved in extracurricular youth work, employees of museums and memorial sites, NGOs, scientists, artists, activists, and representatives of the subsequent generations.

We fund projects that

- develop, test and implement contemporary and innovative formats for education at historical sites with analog, hybrid and/or digital elements (e.g. encounters and seminars, summer schools, work camps, study trips, and work in small national and international groups),
 - create and open up activating, self-efficacy oriented and creative educational approaches as well as references to everyday life for a critical examination of National Socialism and the Holocaust,
 - provide space for a transnational and interdisciplinary critical examination with different narratives of
- the culture of remembrance and remembrance policy in Europe and Israel and for a multi-perspective critical examination with approaches to civic education,
 - involve the target group in a participatory way and design a participant-oriented program,
 - address heterogeneous target groups and in particular reach young people, who have so far been underrepresented in the activities of international youth work and civic education,
 - implement international cooperation on an equal footing.
